

CONSTRUCT YOUR CAREER AT UW

UW–Madison Employee Career Conference

Wednesday, March 11, 2020 • 8:30 a.m. – 4:15 p.m.

Union South, UW–Madison Campus

When was the last time you took a day to pause and explore your career path? This conference will help you take a more active role in managing your career at UW–Madison. You'll learn how to assess where you are now, develop a career plan, or continue building within your current role. Join us and invest in your career!

Keynote Presentation: How to Stay S.T.R.O.N.G. When Managing Your Career

This interactive and tactical session will prepare you to move forward in your career. Ellen Bartkowiak, certified Executive Leadership and Development Coach and president of EllenCoaching, will discuss her six principles of successful career management based on neuroscience: self, thoughts, resiliency, opportunities, network, and gratitude (S.T.R.O.N.G.). Whether you're happy where you are or thinking about change, bring your hard hat and get ready to work on yourself.

This keynote will leave you feeling optimistic, curious, and ready to dive into conference sessions that will build your lifelong career management skills.
